HEALTH DEPARTMENT H1N1 CLINIC ON NOVEMBER 22

The Hunterdon County Department of Health announced another H1N1 clinic to be held November 22 at Hunterdon Central Regional High School from 12 PM-4PM. The clinic is for 10-24 year olds with serious underlying chronic health conditions as defined by the Centers for Disease Control. These include: chronic lung (including asthma), cardiovascular, liver, kidney, neurological/neuromuscular, cognitive, blood, metabolic (including diabetes), or immune suppression conditions. Caregivers of infants 6 months or younger are also eligible.

At the Nov 22 clinic, the vaccine will be administered via injection and not as a nasal spray. While the clinic will be limited by the amount of doses available, if additional doses are received prior to the event, clinic hours will be extended.

Pre-registration is required. Walk-in patients will not be admitted. Individuals under the age of 18 must be accompanied by a parent or guardian. To pre-register, go to <http://www.co.hunterdon.nj.us/health.htm>

Prior to arrival at the clinic, registered patients should read the Vaccine Information Form titled "What You Need to Know," and complete and sign the Vaccination Consent Form.

These forms can be found by clicking the link provided in an appointment confirmation e-mail registrants will receive.

The county health department also has H1N1 clinics planned on Thursday, December 3, from 5 pm-9 pm at South Hunterdon Regional High School in West Amwell; Saturday, December 5, from 8am-8pm at Holland Brook School in Readington Township; Sunday, December 6, from 8am-8pm at Voorhees High School in Lebanon Township; Friday, December 11, from 5pm-9pm at J.P. Case Middle School in Raritan Township; Sunday, December 13, from 8am-8pm at Delaware Valley Regional High School; and Saturday, December 19, from 8am-8pm at North Hunterdon Regional High School.
